

Great news! Palynology Vol 34, Issue 1 is now available online from INFORMAWORLD.

Print copies of this issue will be despatched to members at the beginning of July and should arrive by mid-July. If you have taken up a subscription for 2010 but haven't received your issue by 15th July please contact Vicky Gardner at T&F (Victoria.gardner@tandf.co.uk).

Your subscription includes online access to the journal. To this end, you will shortly receive an email message from support@informaworld.com containing a 'voucher' which needs to be activated to allow access to the journal. To do this, click on the voucher link that appears within the email. Once your voucher is activated, users will be assigned an online username and password and will need to log in to InformaWorld to be able to access content online. To do this, follow this steps:

- 1) Go to www.informaworld.com/TPAL;
- 2) Click on SIGN IN on the top left hand area of your screen;
- 3) This will open up a line with fields for your username and password;
- 4) Once you've entered these details you will have access to the journal's content.

Any access queries should be directed to victoria.gardner@tandf.co.uk.

James B. Riding
Managing Editor – Palynology

Palynology Impact Factor – 2007 to 2009

2009 JCR

Total citations:	356
Journal Impact Factor:	0.862
Rank in Category (by Journal Impact Factor):	107 of 173 journals, in "Plant Sciences" 28 of 41 journals, in "Paleontology"
Immediacy Index:	0.043"

So, the Impact Factor has increased by nearly 200% from the 2008 metric, great news (represented graphically right)! Although these figures won't be included in the JCR until the September update, they will note this on the journals' website.

